

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A sound location detecting system includes a first microphone located at a first location to detect acoustic waves at the first location. A second microphone is located at a second location to detect the acoustic waves at the second location. At least one acoustically reflective surface reflects the acoustic waves. An acoustic analysis device detects and analyzes the acoustic waves. A processing device determines a spatial location of a source of the acoustic waves.